

"High Art" Clothing.

There may be other concerns that make clothing to fit our Southern people as well as Strouse Bros. celebrated "High Art" Brand, but we have never been able to locate them as yet, nor do we believe any one else has. "High Art" clothing is made in five separate and distinct shapes—the short and stout—young men's—regulars—long and slims and extra large and we can fit any shaped man or boy, but it is especially adopted to our tall, slim, long legged, long armed, long bodied, small waisted Southern folks. "High Art" patterns are the result of 35 years of experimenting, study and experience, and they are well nigh perfect. There is a set of shapeliness about a "High Art" suit of clothes that very few of the high price tailors can approach.

—Took Poison—Accidental Shooting—

Baltimore Agent Badly Hurt.

Burned After Tobacco.

A tobacco barn, well filled with the weed, belonging to Emily Fox, a colored woman living near Howell, was consumed by fire last Wednesday night. The tobacco caught in some way during the process of "firing." Her loss amounts to several hundred dollars.

Dwelling House Destroyed By Fire.

Mr. Thos. W. Young, a tenant on Mr. Geo. Boddie's farm near Lafayette, had the misfortune to lose everything he had by fire a few nights ago. The fire originated from a defective fuse and when it was discovered about 2 o'clock in the morning, the roof was falling in and Mr. Young and his wife and five children barely escaped with their lives. There was no insurance, either on building or contents.

Tried the Laudanum Route.

George Mills, a well known young business man of this city, took an overdose of laudanum Saturday night and came near dying before the drug could be pumped from his stomach. Physicians worked with him for several hours before he was considered out of danger. The supposition is that he swallowed the drug with suicidal intent, but no cause has been assigned for the rash act.

Cook and Breadth.

Judges Cook and Breadth opened their canvass in this county in a joint discussion at the court house yesterday afternoon. Judge Breadth opened the discussion, Judge Cook followed with a speech of an hour and a half and Breadth closed with a ten minute rejoinder. The discussion was not concluded in time to be reported in this issue. The judicial candidates have a number of appointments in the county, beginning with one at Grassy to Morrow.

Roshonohah Yesterday.

The Jewish stores were all closed yesterday until 6 p.m., in observance of Roshonohah, or the Jewish New Year. On the evening before appropriate services were held at Mosyan's Hall by the local Jewish Society, of which Mr. J. M. Frankel is President, Mr. M. L. Elb Vice President and Mr. W. L. Benberger Secretary. Mr. Frankel presided. This is the main holiday of the Jewish people and marks the beginning of the year 5657 of the Jewish calendar.

Perhaps Fatally Shot.

Rush McReynolds and another negro, laborers employed on Mr. E. J. Faulkner's farm, near Church Hill, engaged in a friendly scuffle over the possession of a pistol. The weapon was discharged and the ball entered McReynolds' side, just below the heart, producing what is believed to be a fatal wound. The negro was alive late yesterday afternoon, but chances for his recovery are slim. The wounded man says the shooting was purely accidental, hence no warrant has been sworn out for the man who did the shooting.

A Sensation Without Foundation.

Mr. Henry Clardy, of Mobile, Ala., arrived at his father's near Bell's, in this county about two weeks ago, and a few days later had a slight attack of bilious fever. Dr. Jno. P. Bell was his physician and the young man soon recovered from the attack. The report that he had yellow fever was entirely unfounded and calculated to cause needless alarm among those who are easily frightened over reports they see in the newspapers. There has been no yellow fever in Kentucky, except one case at Louisville and two at East Cairo, opposite Cairo, Ill.

CONFERENCE CLOSED.

Delegates Elected to the General Conference—The Campbell Case.

Henderson, Ky., Sept. 25.—The great interest of the Conference was this morning centered in the election of delegates to the General Conference which meets at Baltimore next May. Conference opened with prayer by W. K. Piner.

The case of J. J. Roddel was referred to the committee on superannuation. The Rev. F. M. Thomas was elected superannuator, having served a two year course.

An exhaustive report from Mrs. Truehart as secretary of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions was read. J. S. Crandall, who had been suspended from the university a year ago on account of alleged improper conduct, was reinstated to the active ministry.

The election of delegates to the General Conference resulted as follows: Clerical delegates, Dr. David Morton, Dr. C. W. Lewis of Louisville, Dr. H. C. Morrison and Dr. Gross Alexander, of Nashville. Lay delegates, John L. Wheat, of Louisville; R. E. Crockett, of Elkhart, W. S. Johnson, of Henderson; and B. F. Bowman.

W. K. Piner, of Bowling Green, and D. S. Campbell were elected as alternate clerical delegates.

The report in the investigation of Rev. Geo. F. Campbell's case is expected Monday. An acquittal is confidently expected.

"The testimony before the committee in Rev. Geo. F. Campbell's case was concluded late yesterday afternoon. The meetings of the committee were held in the basement of the Church. At 7:30 last night the committee reconvened and first heard the argument of Dr. J. B. McFarrie, the counsel for the prosecution and then the argument for the defense by Dr. David Morton. The argument was concluded last night about 10 o'clock when the fact that the committee who deliberated on the matter until nearly 12 o'clock. In the evidence was a sensation. A letter from Samuel E. Foster, of Mrs. Campbell, was read which stated that she was of a violent temper, self-willed and at times uncontrollable. Rev. E. W. Bottomay, Dr. D. Moore, Rev. G. E. Fossett and W. C. Brandon testified that they believe Mrs. Campbell to be sane and that she had told the truth to the investigating committee. Dr. Jno. W. Lewis and Rev. J. S. Scoobee were in the hall. They stated that they believed her to be mentally sane, both the committee and the fact that they believed her to be sane. A recommendation that the bishop administer a slight reproof. After the argument in the case had closed, Rev. Geo. F. Campbell rose and said, 'I feel that it is right in the matter and that in all that I could ask.' On the adjournment of the committee Dr. H. C. Morrison, the chairman, was seen congratulating the matter and stated the committee had not completed its work, but would not say whether or not a final decision was reached, but that it would be Monday.

The Gleaser is prepared to definitely state that no final decision was reached last night by the committee, but that a decision will be arrived at to-morrow, when a report will be made to the Conference of the finding."

COLORED GIRL ASSAULTED.

A Negro's Horrible Crime at Owensboro.

Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 26.—Henry Richardson, a negro of about thirty years, with a wife and three children, was arrested this afternoon upon information volunteered by Mr. J. D. Long, a sign painter, of Owensboro, charging him with a criminal assault upon the person of Julia Smith, a ten-year-old colored girl.

Mr. Long testified that he witnessed Richardson drag the child down into a ravine near the county jail, in this city, and accomplish his purpose. Richardson was immediately taken before Judge Pendleton, who remanded him to jail until to-morrow for his examining trial.

Feeling ran high for some time after the negro had been placed in jail among the colored people of the city, but no fear of a mob is expected.

Three of a Kind.

Anderson, Ind., September 22.—That free silver is not a dead issue in this county was amply illustrated this morning when the task of naming triplet boys, born to Mrs. Richard Weaver, at Oakshandon, fell to the father. The boys all showed a great deal of activity, and Weaver declared that they could be called William Jennings and Bryan.

Will Cato, in jail at Princeton, has confessed the killing of Dave Askew.

RAPE AND ROPE.

Struck His Victim With a Coupling Pin—She May Yet Live.

Hawesville, Ky., Sept. 25.—The first daylight lynching to occur in Kentucky since the murderer Barker was hanged from the church window in Lexington fifty years ago, occurred here at 6 o'clock this afternoon, when Raymond Bushrod, a 20-year-old negro, was hanged by a mob for assaulting Miss Maggie Roberts.

Miss Maggie, who is only 16 years of age, had been sent to the station to buy some groceries. Half a mile from home she was assaulted by the negro. He had a large coupling pin in his hand and when she resisted he struck her on the head, rendering her unconscious. She came to about an hour afterward and managed to get home.

Her father quickly gathered a crowd of neighbors and they chased the negro into a thicket. There Roberts left his friends on ground and came to Hawesville for Sheriff Funk. The latter gathered a posse and went to the scene, but the negro was so carefully hidden that he was not captured until nearly midnight. The Sheriff found him secreted in some underbrush. He got him out of the thicket without attracting the attention of Roberts and his friends and placed him in jail.

The news of the capture did not spread until this morning, when men from the Petrie neighborhood began coming into town in squads. They continued to come all day and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon fully 300 strangers were here.

At 4:30 o'clock Judge Adair told Jailor Brown to give it out that Bushrod had escaped. This caused the mob to scatter and begin a search for the negro. Some of the mob returned behind and they soon learned that the negro had been captured, but a ruse of the officers to spirit the negro away and prevent his being lynched. They sent runners to overtake the members of the mob who had left town and at 5 o'clock they were back at the jail demanding admittance.

A report had spread that Gov. Bradley ordered the State troops to come here and surround the station on action. They procured hammers and axes, broke down the jail door and soon had the negro.

They led Bushrod into the courtyard, where he confessed that he had assaulted Miss Roberts and asked the leaders of the mob to let him pray. They granted him the privilege and he prayed for nearly five minutes.

When he had finished a noose was quickly slipped on his neck and he was quickly jerked up.

After waiting until life was extinct, the mob departed without firing a single shot. The crowd was numbered by fully 600 people. Bushrod came from Rockport, Ind. There he was charged with assaulting his aunt, aged 60, and also with assaulting a white girl.

Miss Roberts is badly injured and may die.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Circuit Court convened in this city yesterday for a six weeks' term. The docket is the largest for years. There are about 150 appearances and between four and five hundred continued cases. The most important case to come up is that of the Commonwealth against T. W. Wootton, charged with murder. This case is set for the 7th day of the term—Oct. 1. The grand jury was drawn and after lengthy instructions were delivered by Judge Breadth, court adjourned until this morning, when the petit jury will be put in motion and the mills of justice will be put in motion.

Tried to Whip a Man.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 25.—Editor Pat McDonald, of the Western Argus was coddled at the door of his residence opposite the Court House at 8:15 o'clock this morning by Mrs. Sarah Brady, a grass widow.

The Brady woman went to his residence and rang the bell. McDonald was summoned to the door. As the door was being opened, she struck McDonald in the face with a heavy cowhide, and began to lash him. The affair caused a great sensation. McDonald said he never knew the woman and the item in his paper threatened the assault had no reference to her.

The three are going to have another annual reunion at Providence Oct. 7.

A LOVE SONG.

A bright one when you're here,
For gladdest skies are in your eyes,
Your smile is mine and mine is yours,
Your face is like a garden fair
Where radiant roses bloom,
And all the flowers rich and rare
Have spilled their love on you.
I know not what may lie beyond
The story of our lives;
I know not if a dream must end
The tale of love and life;
But all the human joys that thrill
In every day,
Would be lost if you were not
I hold your hand and say:
—Nixon Waterman, in L. A. W. Bulletin.

MISS SMITH'S HATBAND.

The United States Navy Loses a
Recruit Suddenly.

People are apt to speak of her as a stunning girl or dashing, or something of the sort, and she has quite got used to having men turn when they see her in the street and stare after her, so that she no longer feels indignation or embarrassment, when such things happen. It all means simply that she is far to look upon and brimful of health and spirit, besides knowing how to make the best use of her advantages. Her name is not Smith. Not to describe her place of abode with too great particularity, it may be said that she could find her way home unassisted if set down in any part of the shopping district in New York.

It may be that this peculiarity of residence was the real cause of the story. It is certain, anyway, that young women in other parts of the country had been wearing ship's ribbons—if that is the name of the things—for years before it happened, and that many of them were given to making collections of tender trophies had gathered complete sets of all the craft on the Naval Registry, and deserted the navy for fresh fields. Therefore, by rights, the thing should have happened years ago instead of days ago, or else it shouldn't have happened at all. Certainly it seems fair to infer that she would not have brought such an experience upon herself had she known that there was no especial novelty about the sight of one of the hands about a girl's hat, and that knowledge ought surely to have been hers had she lived anywhere else but the Atlantic seaboard.

However all that may be, the fact remains that it was less than a fortnight ago that she paid her first visit to a man-of-war, and when she returned home again she wore about her sailor hat a black ribbon with the words "U. S. S. Plymouth Rock," or some such name, on it in gold letters. And she was proud of it. Pride may spring from various causes. In this case it was partially vicious. A young man had taken her over the ship and had displayed its wonders to her. He had shown her big guns and bigger admirals and biggest war-torn bulkheads. Her head was whirled. Then when she was in this state of mind he said, with simple-hearted earnestness:

"Why, we could whip anything of our class along!"
"He was only a midshipman or an ensign, or something of that sort, at which he spoke with a proprietary accent; but youth does not draw these fine distinctions, and the words were uttered in a manner so sincere and ardent that it was almost as good as a declaration of love. So, sympathizing pride and interest in the ship were roused in her. Then she saw the colored sailors among the white."

"Do you mean to say that you have white and colored on the same ship?" she exclaimed.

"Why, certainly," was the reply.
"And how do you make them get along together, and how do you make them stay? Now, with us, we have to have either all colored servants or all white. How ever do you do it?" and she went on to relate episodes of domestic history.

Naval discipline is a large subject, as anybody knows who has looked upon the gorgeousness of a court-martial, and at the best there was little enough time, so the young man introduced the subject of ship's ribbons instead of the relations of the white and the colored seaman. It is as certain that a regular formula is employed in the navy in giving these ribbons away as it is that there is a factory somewhere in the United States where the ribbons are turned out in wholesale quantities for just this purpose. The government could never afford to supply the thousands upon thousands that are lavished upon young women annually, and with so many different young women some form of words must have arisen or been developed by experience that has been found to be the most fitting. Whatever the formula may be, this young woman's eyes sparkled and her cheeks glowed when the band with "U. S. S. Plymouth Rock" had been duly adjusted on her hat.

She didn't happen to be living at her home then, but at a summer boarding house, where there resided, also, several inconsequential maidens. These viewed with high disapproval the arrival of the new hatband.

"Those things went out of style long ago," said the first.

"I know a girl who has not just a single one, but so many that she made a crazy quilt out of them," said the second.

"Anyway, I don't believe in a girl's advertising in that way the fact that she has managed to find a beau," said the third.

Miss Smith, whose name was not Smith, smiled and exhibited the band more prominently than before. Time passed and she was still engaged in this occupation when something happened suddenly. She knew something had happened, because first of the inconsequential maidens came up with a companion and whispered about her.

"I was telling Jennie how stylish your hat was," said the inconsequential maiden said. "You don't show it to her, please."

"Oh, how interesting!" said Jennie, reading the name "U. S. S. Plymouth Rock." "So it is?" Then she and the first inconsequential maiden walked away, talking earnestly in low tones.

They were followed by the second inconsequential maiden with a companion.

AFRAID OF MADNESS

A Horror Often Entertained by People in Healthy Minds.

"You would be astonished," said a well-known Fourth street physician to an Enquirer man the other day, "if you only knew the number of people who live in mortal terror of some day going mad."

"One evening last week a man came in here with a desperate sort of look on his face, and asked me to make an examination of his head. 'I believe I have gone in my mind too far, so far,' he said, 'and there is no trace of madness anywhere in the family. But I am constantly haunted by a fear of going out of my mind one of these days, and for five years I simply have not dared to marry the girl I am engaged to on this account. You must tell me the worst now; I can't stand the suspense any longer.' He was, of course, absolutely sane.

"Another case is that of a lady patient of mine. For years her life was rendered wretched by a so-called 'prementition' that she would suddenly lose her sense and go mad. She suffered a good bit from nervous depression, but otherwise was as right as you or I. A long sea trip finally cured her completely, and she has never been troubled by a return of her old horrible anxiety.

"A servant maid came to me about three years ago, and told me that she had left no less than four good situations in as many months because she thought she was going mad, and she was afraid of her mistress finding it out.

"The fact is that a person who imagines himself to be going insane never becomes so. I have never met a case in my life where a madman had any sensible warning of his malady beforehand."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

QUEER FIGHTING.

Fish Out of its Element and the Hawk Won.

Persons in the vicinity of Kirkwood park one afternoon witnessed a battle in mid-air between a fish-hawk and a large carp which the bird had taken from the water. For a week or more regular visitors to the park have noticed the hawk come up the Brandywine every afternoon on a fishing excursion. It was always successful, but usually caught small fish, which soon perished in its talons.

The hawk on this day caught larger game than he expected, and there was a terrific battle, which lasted 20 minutes and was witnessed by a large crowd.

The bird was first seen flying gracefully through the air. Suddenly it dived toward the water. It came up with a large carp in its claws and the fish was fully as long as the bird and appeared to weigh about six pounds.

The bird, with its prey, started up in the air, but the fish objected, and then began the battle.

First the bird had the advantage and then the fish would appear to be on top. The bird repeatedly sank its beak into the carp, but the fish was all of fight. It twisted and swirled and all the hawk could do was to pose in the air and peck at the fish.

Finally, with one mighty effort the fish gave a big twist and escaped from the bird's talons. It fell toward the water and the hawk dived after it. When the fish struck the water it was so badly injured that it could not get away before the bird was upon it.

This time the hawk got a better hold on its prey, and after sinking its talons deep in its body picked it with its beak and held it until the fish was apparently dead. The bird then flew down the stream and disappeared in the direction of the Delaware river.—Washington News.

First Person Photographed.

It was in 1842 that John Draper, then a professor in the University of New York, made the first portrait photograph. The subject was Elizabeth Draper, his sister. Prof. Draper had the idea that in order to produce distinct facial outlines in photography it would be necessary to cover the countenance of the person photographed with flour. This was a strange notion now, and it proved not to be a good one then, for all of Prof. Draper's early attempts were failures. He finally left off the flour and was then quite successful.

This so delighted him that he sent the picture to Sir William Herschel, the eminent English astronomer. William was in turn delighted, and made known Prof. Draper's success to the scientific men of Europe. He also sent Prof. Draper a letter of acknowledgment and congratulation, which has been carefully preserved in the archives of the Draper family.—Philadelphia Press.

"Has Been Buckner is to be brought forth from his obscurity and will make that famous speech of his three times this season. Efforts are also being made to have Carlisle tempt the egg throwers at least one time to show that he hasn't slipped his collar."

Dr. J. Q. A. Stewart, who made a failure in running the Female Minded Institute at Frankfort, is to give another chance. He has been selected as the leader of the Bolsheroists in his senatorial district, in an effort to defeat the Democratic nominee.

Judge Buckley Kilgore, known while in Congress as Buck Kilgore, of Texas, died last week. He first achieved distinction by kicking down a door locked by Char Reed's orders. Three years ago he was appointed U. S. Judge in the Indian Territory. He was 62 years old.

It seems to be settled by the statements of Judge Breathitt and by letters from Mr. Keys himself, that Mr. Ben C. Keys is for Judge Breathitt again this time. He has not yet made public his reasons for supporting a man holding to political opinions so antagonistic to his own.

Mr. Henry M. Caldwell, who used to live in this city, is now publishing a journal in Louisville called "Ada." Mr. Caldwell has made quite a reputation as an ad. writer, and his paper gives his readers the benefit of his experience and observation. It is the only paper of its kind in Kentucky and it ought to be a success. The price is only 20 cents a year.

George Dinning, the negro who killed Jodie Conn in Simpson county, has been in Louisville since Gov. Bradley pardoned him out of the penitentiary. One night last week he made an insulting remark to a crowd of white men and one of them hauled out his eye with a brickbat. He is afraid to go to Simpson county and it seems he is none too safe in Louisville.

Old John M. Palmer has again emerged from his obscurity in Illinois by volunteering his services to assist the negroes of Alton in an effort to force their children into the white schools by mandamus proceedings. This is the same man who was once a guard of 60 white men in Christian county and 5100 in Kentucky voted for last fall.

Walter Forrester has exploded another bomb under his esteemed enemy Todd by producing a constitutional section, number 180, showing Todd to be ineligible. It reads as follows:

"No mayor or chief executive or fiscal officer of any city of the first or second class, after the expiration of the term of office to which he has been elected under this constitution, shall be eligible for the succeeding term."

Todd has served only a part of a term and he will claim that he has not filled the office for "a term." This technicality, however, will avail him nothing, as he will not come within 1000 votes of election.

"No changes will be made in the Const and Geodetic Survey for some time. A report states that Mr. Crumbaugh, a Kentuckian, who has been here for several in suits pushing his claims for a consulship, has been promised the position held by Geo. Duffield, but at the Treasury Department nothing is known of such a promise having been made. Mr. Crumbaugh is a graduate at Annapolis and has filled scientific chairs in several educational institutions."

The shore from the Washington Star seems to crush another of Maj. Crumbaugh's ambitions. Maj. Crumbaugh has been badly treated, although the President was supposed to be his friend.

"Dollar wheat and forty cent dollars" was the subject of an editorial in the Courier-Journal Saturday, although its market report showed wheat to be 91¢ and silver 58 cents an ounce, making the bullion value of a dollar 45 cents. There has been no "dollar wheat" in this country, except for two days four or five weeks ago. There are no "forty cent dollars" in the United States and never will be while the government is solvent and has the power to make money.

Yellow fever continues to find fresh victims in the South. Sunday's record includes one death each at Edwards, Ocean Springs and Scranton, with twenty-three new cases at Edwards, seventeen at New Orleans, five at Mobile and one at California, La. The only druggist at Edwards is a victim of the disease. There have been a total of 176 cases and seven deaths at Edwards.

Sudden Death Near Elmo.
Pembroke, Ky., Sept. 27.—Mr. William Doan, a highly respected citizen of the Elmo neighborhood, died suddenly yesterday from the effects of becoming overheated. He was 63 years old and had been a citizen of the county all his life. The interment took place at the family burying ground this afternoon.

Killed By a Train.
Mayfield, Ky., Sept. 26.—Claude Lyon, aged eighteen, was killed by a freight train near his home, on the railroad, one mile south of town, this morning at 4 o'clock.
He was returning home and is said to have been intoxicated. His body apparently was not badly bruised, but death resulted in one hour after he was struck. The deceased was the eldest son of Mrs. Lyon, the mother of the quintuplets born last year.

Here's a marriage notice that appeared in an exchange: "Married at Flintstone, by the Rev. Mr. Windstone, Nehemiah Whitestone, and Miss Wilhelmina Neulstone, both of Limestone." This is getting mighty "rocky" and there's bound to be a "tasting" of these "stone" hearts before many "pebble" appear on the consubstantial beach. The grindstone of domestic infelicity will sharpen the ax of discord and jealousy, and sooner or later one or the other of this pair will rest beneath a tombstone. Then look out for a brimstone.—Farmers' Home Journal.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, unless cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free.

Rev. H. C. Settle.

At a meeting of the official Board of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, held in the Sunday-school room the committee on resolutions, in regard to the removal of Rev. Henry C. Settle, submitted the following:

To Whom It May Concern:

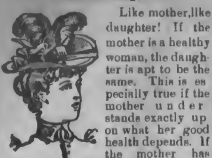

We, the official Board of the Methodist M. E. Church, South, at Hopkinsville, representing the feeling and sentiments of the church at large, and speaking for the church as a whole, and individually, desire to commend to our brethren everywhere our beloved pastor, Rev. Henry C. Settle, whose official relation to us expires with this conference year. We commend him for his piety; for his patience; for his wisdom; for his ability as a preacher and expounder of the scriptures; for his learning and eloquence; for his independence; and courage; for his manhood and gentleness; for his true fact and discrimination. We love him for his faithfulness to this church and all its members; we love him for his great heart; and for his sympathy with his brethren in their manifold troubles and afflictions, in their sickness and their disappointments. And whatsoever he shall be sent or shall go, we promise to follow him with our love and prayers for his happiness. If he shall receive in his new field of labor, the love and esteem which his devoted children will be happy and successful, and to this end we bespeak for him the closest security and most intense interest of his new church, wherever that may be. For his dear wife and children we express our admiration and best wishes. Sister Settle has proven herself to be a wise, prudent, congenial and friendly companion to the man whom we love with so much regret. We commend her especially for her wisdom and prudence; for her pleasant and affable manners with our people. Like her beloved husband, she will always be appreciated and missed by us. May the Good Saviour shield them both from every evil.

L. L. ELOIN
IRA L. SMITH

The foregoing resolutions were unanimously received by a rising vote, and the Secretary was ordered to spread them upon the minutes, give a copy to Bro. Settle and the city papers.

Mother and Daughter.

Like mother, like daughter! If the mother is a healthy woman, the daughter is apt to be the same. This is especially true if the mother understands exactly up on what her good health depends.

If the mother has learned to guard herself from the ills of life she will know how to guard her daughter from the same ills.

"In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman a mother writes: 'I had been an invalid for a long time after my girl was born. The doctors seemed unable to help me. I was induced to try Per-u-na, which cured me and made of me a sound, healthy and happy woman. By this time my daughter was three years old, and I made up my mind that if Per-u-na was good for me it would be good for my little girl. I have used the Per-u-na for her ever since. When ever she is sick, whenever she catches cold, or gets nervous, or has anyone of the numberless ailments to which children are subject, I give her Per-u-na. She is now sixteen years of age, and has never taken any other medicine. She is well, beautiful and happy, for which I give Per-u-na praise. My own health, as well as my daughter's, I attribute to the use of Per-u-na.'

Dr. Hartman has lately written a book devoted to the ailments peculiar to the female sex. It is profusely and beautifully illustrated, and every woman should possess one. It will be sent free to women only, for short time, by The Per-u-na Drug Manufacturing Co., Columbus, Ohio.

LIVED ON $100 A YEAR.

The story of Rev. John O. Smithson, of Kirkmanville, a Methodist minister, lived during the past year on $40 in money and $60 in provisions, which became known at the Henderson Conference, brought the actual hardships of the country preacher to public notice in a way that made a deep impression upon the more fortunate, high-salaried men who took delight last year in voting the gold standard upon their less fortunate brethren like Mr. Smithson. In an interview Mr. Smithson gave his experience as follows:

"I'll tell you," said he, the way we managed it in the past year. When I returned from Conference I could not find a place, but managed to get a couple of rooms for a few days. He then, October and Christmas we moved four times, from room to room. Finally I bought an acre of ground in the woods, for which a good brother took my unsecured note. Clearing the timber off the land, I built a two room house, in which I placed my wife and babies. We lived in it for a year, when I sold the place for what I gave for it, and paid off the note. Since then I have been resting.

"During the year I trimmed nine coffins for the local undertaker, delivered $100 worth of trees for the nurseryman, married nine couples, had a spell of bilious fever, suffered with forty carbuncles and filled my seven appointments regularly. I also went fishing and caught a large trout; we haven't been without meat all the year.

"You can say for me that I love those people, that they have done the best they could for me, and that I am willing to spend all my life laboring among them."

Referring to this truthful statement, not made complacently but cheerfully, even the Courier-Journal, notoriously an enemy of the poor, is moved to make this editorial comment:

"A reader of sensibility can scarce refrain from smiling through his tears at this recital. Most of us who live in the cities where the ministers have wealthy and fashionable congregations and receive ample salaries can with difficulty imagine that there are men like the Rev. Smithson at work in Kentucky. Of course, his must be an extreme case, for while the lot of the country preacher is not a special happy one, it would scarcely be believed that ministers of the Gospel enjoyed right in this State what his was smaller than that of a Hindu or Chinese. When it is recollected that Mr. Smithson has a wife and three children, the reader is tempted to almost total incredulity."

For once this paper has told the truth. There has been none of the much heralded prosperity in the Kirkmanville neighborhood.

The editor of the KENTUCKIAN has personal knowledge of the truth of these facts. We have known Mr. Smithson ever since boyhood. We knew him as a pale-faced boy who began as a clerk in a country store. We have watched his struggles to secure an education to enter the ministry and to serve God on $100 a year.

The house he speaks of having built was put up largely with his own hands, though he is a frail, delicate man, totally unfitted for manual labor. His church is in a little Todd county town, near the Christian county line, that used to be prosperous. But the people can raise but little wheat in that section and this year of beautiful crops has been harder than usual with them. Times are hard with them but worse times are coming. The drought destroyed their corn crops on the hill sides and the frost has killed their tobacco patches in the valleys. How they are to support themselves and their preacher another year, God only knows.

And yet we are told prosperity has come, because the trusts have put up and crop failures have made feed stuffs costly.

Pursuing the subject the Courier-Journal suggests that "some of the loose change left after sending remittances to those laboring among the heathens of foreign lands be devoted to lightening the load of the Rev. Smithson, and others like him, if there be others, right here in Kentucky."

Why not lighten his load and the loads of others similarly situated, by increasing measures that will make the people prosperous. Such suggestions come with poor grace from this sunny of mankind.

An avalanche of ice, rocks and dirt buried eighteen gold seekers on the Chikiloot trail in Colorado. The Choyanski was the only victim identified.

After a chase commencing weeks ago, Robert Charles, of Covington, overtook her husband and paramour, Florence Beaker, at Pontiac, Mich., and had the pair arrested.

Rev. J. W. Stanton, pastor of the Central Methodist Church at Stanton, was found on the railroad track there with his skull crushed. There is no clue to his assailant.

Guatemala is in a state of terror. Barrios has lost his head, through fear of assassination, and is rocklessly on looking people about or anyone when suspected of the slightest leaning toward the insurgents.

Fred Moore, the assailant of a little white girl, after having been chased by a mob through several Tennessee counties, has been found guilty at Nashville, and the death penalty fixed.

SOME POETIC QUEENS.

Carmen Sylva the Most Talented of Royal Verse Masters.

A clever Englishman, Mary E. Garton, has called attention to the large number of women of royal blood who have been hymn writers of some sort. She awards the palm to Carmen Sylva, the famous poet queen of Rumania. This distinguished singer inherits much of her talent from her mother, the princess of Wied, who, in her time, wrote some very touching and impressive hymns and chants.

Elizabeth, queen of Bohemia, who was grandmother of George I. and a direct ancestress of Queen Victoria, wrote excellent religious poetry when at home in Scotland before her marriage, and after that ceremony in her adopted country. Another one of the Stuart family, Mary Queen of Scots, is also said to have composed several verses upon church topics of considerable beauty. A royal singer of more than average ability was Marie, queen of Hungary. Her life was one of great trouble, and what little joy she found was in religious activity, or contemplation. Her stanzas express the emotions which would be born of so sad a career. A poet whose name is found in many German anthologies is Princess Louise Henrietta, electress of Brandenburg, who was one of the favorites of the present emperor of that land. She was a woman of strong character, who frequently conducted religious exercises, and then writing her own prayers, sermons and hymns. The mother of Emperor William I., Princess Louise of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, is credited with two or three beautiful hymns. That brilliant writer, Queen Margaret of Navarre, wrote several religious poetical compositions of great beauty and force. Empress Catherine of Russia is said to have composed many lines marked by grim humor and satire, rather than sweetness or sentiment, while the virgin Queen Elizabeth wrote and destroyed many religious verses, of which a few have come down to the modern age.

Light from Diamonds.

Many diamonds which have been exposed to sunshine give out light on being placed in a dark room. When placed in a vacuum they are exposed to a high-tension current of electricity, diamonds phosphoresce, or shine, with different colors. Most South African diamonds, under these circumstances, exhibit a bluish light, while diamonds from other parts of the world shine with colors such as "bright blue, apricot, pale blue, red, yellowish green, orange, and pale green." After rectifying the preceding facts, in a recent lecture in London, Prof. William Crookes made this interesting statement: "One beautiful green diamond in my collection, when phosphorescing in a good vacuum, gives almost as much light as a candle; the light is pale green, almost white."

A Golden Floor.

King George II. was once invited to dine with a wealthy and eccentric old duke, who possessed more money than he very well knew what to do with. Upon this occasion, wishing to impress his guests with the immensity of his riches, he had the floor of the dining-hall paved from end to end with sovereigns, the head being up. Each coin was stuck in a mixture of lime, which soon dried, leaving the precious "tile" securely fastened. When the king arrived, and was shown what had been done in his honor, his amazement knew no bounds, and it was with difficulty he could be persuaded to set foot upon the golden floor.

ENGLAND'S LARGEST FARM.

It is situated in Lincolnshire and Contains 2,500 Acres.

It may not generally be known, but it is a fact, that the largest farm in England is in Lincolnshire. Five miles from Louth, on the Louth and Lincoln line, is the parish of Withcall. The farm occupies the entire parish, and its area is upward of 2,500 acres. Nearly 2,000 acres are under the plow, and from that may be gathered an idea of the number of horses required to work this large undertaking.

The farm is so large that three yards are needed. They are named the north yard, the south yard and the home yard. There is also a smaller supplementary one—the New Farmstead. Ten cottages for the homes of the laborers at the north and south yards, while near the home yard is situated Withcall house, the residence of the W. Ward, the lessee of the farm. The railway runs close by. Near are also the church—a prettily-built edifice and pleasantly situated—the rectory and the schools. The district is very hilly and in consequence of this there have been made two large cuttings so as to form a road to the north farm. In one of them may be seen a thin bed of fuller's earth.

Down the valley, which is crossed by an embankment formed of the chalk taken from the cuttings, may be seen a sparkling stream. This supplies the whole parish with water.

Some years ago the owner, Mr. Clayton, caused pipes to be laid all over the farm, so as to supply both houses and cattle. The water is forced from the reservoir by a very ingenious small engine consisting of a water wheel and "donkey" pump. There are, roughly speaking, about six miles of water pipes. The water is exceptionally good and throughout the driest of summers there is always a constant supply.

There are a large number of animals on the place, including about 70 working horses, upward of 500 beasts, 3,000 sheep, and the pigs at the last census numbered 100. "The farm is made up of large fields, eight of which are over 100 acres in area." — London Tit-Bits.

A NEW TOBACCO PEST.

It Does Extensive Damage Where There is Bull Nettle.

A new tobacco pest is announced by Gerald McCarthy, entomologist and botanist of the North Carolina station. This is the Gelechia picipes (Zett.). Mr. McCarthy says: "has as its common food-plant the bull nettle, well known as a pest to our farmers, and permitted by them to occupy their soil without let or hindrance. The range of the insect, Mr. McCarthy says, is co-extensive with that of its host plant, and this includes nearly the entire tobacco growing area of the United States.

The insect is not new, but it is only recently that it has taken to tobacco, and where it has taken to the change is in districts where the bull nettle is most common. The Gelechia picipes Mr. McCarthy described as about two-tenths of an inch long, and with wing expanse of from three-fourths to half an inch. The general color is yellowish gray, the head and thorax paler than the wings, the primaries marked by a few smoky streaks, and a marginal row of minute black dots. It belongs to the same family as the clothes and fur-moths, and to the fly-weevil, so destructive to cribbed corn.

The most promising remedy at present, Mr. McCarthy says, is the extirpation of the bull-nettle in all tobacco-growing sections, and the prompt plowing under or removal of tobacco-stumps soon after the crop has been gathered. Clean cultivation of the growing crop, with frequent stirring of the soil close up to the plants, will destroy the dormant pupae or cover them so deep that the moth will be unable to find its way to the surface of the ground. A close watch should be kept, and when blotch-mines are seen on leaves, the inclosed caterpillar may be easily crushed between thumb and finger. The leaves will then soon repair the damage. Trap-flights near the field from dusk until ten p. m., will attract and destroy large numbers of the moth.

A Practical Reformer.

The countless of Carlisle, who has for some time past been acquiring public houses in the vicinity of North castle, Cumberland, England, whenever the opportunity presented itself, has purchased by private contract the old historic inn known as the Plough at Banks Lancroft. In almost every instance the property acquired has been turned into a temperance refreshment house on a more or less elaborate scale.

The Coming of Baby.

When a baby comes to the house real happiness comes. The care and anxiety about nothing against the clinging touch of little hands and the sound of the little voice. The highest function given to human beings is bringing healthy, happy children into the world. Over thirty years ago the needs of women appealed to Dr. Pierce, now chief consulting physician to the Laver, Hodge and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. The result of his study improved by thirty years of practice is embodied in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It strengthens, purifies and makes healthy the organs distinctly feminine. It gives weak women the strength and health necessary for the production of healthy children and it makes the bearing of those children easy. It is sure to cure any weakness or debility peculiar to women; restores health, secures information, strength, purity, invigorates.
